COUPLES COACHING THE FUTURE OF RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT

by Neelam Challoner – The Redesign Life Coach

Before I was married, my husband and I were invited to attend 'pre-marital counselling' sessions by our church leader. We knew this was not because we 'needed' counselling, but it was to help us talk, share and ultimately make sure we are on the same page before our wedding day. I guess it was our leaders' intention to ensure we truly love each other, had developed good communication and understanding of each other.

My husband and I went along for few sessions, to our surprise and honestly, we found it helpful. I began to understand my fiancé a little more, and he me. We ironed out some small matters individually which, had they not been dealt with, could have become bigger issues in our marriage.

I think we both felt that it was time well invested and from time to time reflect on that experience.

The number one reason for many breakdowns in relationship is communication. Without this, you cannot build trust, you will not understand each other's values (what's most important) and you cannot build a fused future. Communication is the beginning of wisdom in building a strong, happy, and fulfilling life with someone.

As a Coach, my recommendation to couples who are about to embark on a journey to 'happy ever after' is to invest time and a little money into couples coaching or pre-marital counselling. You will reap the rewards for years to come.

Now, before you think "I don't have any problems..." bear with me.

Coaching is not counselling. It is about releasing potential in you and moving you from where you are to where you want to be. It is goal orientated and frankly, quite motivating. Furthermore, couples coaching is a meaningful process that can help you become the best version of you.

Assuming you undoubtedly love each other, here are my top suggestions for things to cover with your Coach as a couple:

1 Values Analysis

Discover and identify each of your values, and then agree the ones you will merge to create one combined set of values

2 Vision clarified

Have a clear vision of where you are both heading in the future. What do you both want? Where are you heading? How do you want to make a difference? etc

3 Communication

Understand the ways we communicate the power of communication and how best to communicate with your partner, particularly when there could be some differences and there will be, as we are all different.

4 Turn around limiting beliefs

If you both carry limiting beliefs, you will bring that thinking, and behaviour into the marriage and it may cause frustration with your partner and could hinder plans and diminish unity.

5 Speak Truth

Openly discuss expectations, worries, and personal inhibitions and then encourage and affirm each other.

6 Leave the past in the past

Its time to begin not just a new chapter, instead, a new book. This is a poignant time to deal with past issues and put the baggage down. Forever.

7 Get Creative

Put together a book of dreams, a vision board, inspirational ideas and innovations especially if you are a couple who have big ambitions. Dream, create and have fun.

There are many things that could be included as part of your couples coaching programme. At a consultation, you can discuss what your needs, wants, goals and challenges are and then your coach will create a bespoke plan just for you.

You can contact me, or look up other coaches and also speak to your local/family temple, mosque, church, synagogue etc. and see if they have this provision in place. It will be the best money and time invested. Let us be honest, none of us are perfect and so, two imperfect people may need a helping hand in a safe and open space to freely dialogue with impartial and non-judgemental facilitation and take a pragmatic approach to move forward.

So what can happen because of having couples coaching?

You both will a) have a deeper understanding of yourself and your partner b) be on the same page c) improve communication d) feel more closer and confident about your future together e) gain clarity on things that might need a little attention f) feel happier after having this meaningful experience g) be able to problem solve, set goals, talk about important matters without fear and h) create your own unique 'happy ever after' on a solid foundation and so much more.

“A great marriage does not happen because of the love you had in the beginning, but how well you continue building love until the end”

5 FIVE REASONS YOU NEED A WEDDING PLANNER

Wedding and event planners are thought of as a luxury, something for the Kardashian's of the world, but it is time to change that perception. It is time to take a closer look at why having a planner is more of a necessity, and why you might need a wedding planner someday.

Whether you are planning a small and intimate affair, or a large-scale, grand wedding, the logistics and planning behind it is, more or less, the same. The research, vetting the vendors, the millions of meetings, the outfit fittings, the wedding admin, the budget management... I can go on. You find yourselves staying in on your weekday evenings and booking multiple wedding meetings on your weekends, until you realise the wedding planning has taken over your life. It becomes another full-time job!

The VIP Studio

The idea and concept of planning a wedding is initially very exciting. However, when reality kicks in, the process can be entirely different. It suddenly isn't just 'your' dream wedding, it's the family's wedding. It suddenly dawns on you just how much everything costs and then you realise there are hundreds of suppliers and you simply might not know where to even begin. The novelty and excitement for many Brides and Grooms can wear off relatively quickly, and that is when many couples realise that a wedding planner is certainly not a luxury, but a necessity. Your planner can save you time, money and stress, so we've come up with 5 reasons why you should hire a planner:

1. Budget Management

The budget is one of the biggest and most important factors when planning your wedding, and regardless of what your budget is, every couple is inclined to spend a little more. Sometimes, it's just because you really like something and sometimes, it's because you convince yourself that because your wedding is once in a lifetime – you deserve it. Your wedding planner is there to ensure you get the wedding of your dreams and stick to your budget. They'll advise you on if you're overspending on a service, help you negotiate and manage your payments.

2. Contacts

After many years and many events, your planner would have carefully selected suppliers that they can trust and recommend highly. By working with them over time, strong relationships have been built and they know how they operate. This makes it easier for them to match the right vendors to you and make sure it works within your budget. Saves you a huge amount of time googling for hours and sending repetitive email enquiries – you just have to tell your planner and consider it done.

In addition to this, by working closely with suppliers and providing repeat business, planners benefit from better rates or items / services being thrown in complimentary, which is a great plus point for you.

Raja Sam Photography

The Director's Cut

3. Ceremony to Reception Turnarounds

Orchestrating room turnarounds is occasionally the most stressful part of the day. Normally because you, your family and your friends have to go off to get ready for the next event, so no one is usually around during the entire turnaround. Who will put your place cards out? Have the caterers remembered the favours? Did the venue layout the tables how I asked? Has the DJ and cake arrived?

Your planner or coordinator will be there throughout your turnaround, helping where necessary – even if that means they get their hands dirty or decide to get involved in some manual labour. They will do everything in their power to work closely with each vendor, within the given time frame and ensure the room looks exactly how you've imagined. Just think of them as your second set of eyes and ears on the ground!

4. It should be fun!

On average, it takes around 300-350 hours to plan an Asian wedding, which feels even longer if you're not enjoying the process. Unfortunately, many couples learn early on that a lot of wedding tasks aren't always fun. There are so many details to plan and things to keep on top of. Meddling family and friends, payments, suppliers not replying, late RSVPs whilst keeping on top of your full-time job and social life. Stressful to even think about!

Your planner is like the ultimate bridal friend. Organised, on the ball and will never get sick of hearing about your wedding. From vetting the best man speech to diffusing troublesome situations between you and your inlaws (trust me, we've seen it all!), your planner will be there with you every step of the way, treating the event like their own and will get involved with whatever you want them involved in. This may be the boring stuff like organising transport for your guests from the hotel to the venue, or researching the best wedding insurance for you. So, you can still enjoy the fun parts that you imagined your wedding planning would entail, and leave the 'boring' bits to them. They become like a temporary member of your family and ultimately want you, your fiancé and your families to all have peace of mind.

5. You ALL deserve to enjoy it

Quite often we hear that couples have a circle of organised friends who love weddings or family members that have everything under control due to previous weddings that have taken place. Even if that is the case, and they genuinely want to do this and help you, the best gift for all of you would be to have a coordinator present on the day. After the months of planning, you don't want to look back and feel like your parents, siblings or friends were constantly running around the whole day or were more relieved your day was over! Your planner or coordinator will make sure your family and friends are just as comfortable as you are and of course, that you all enjoy it!

The meaning behind Saheli is friend, and that is exactly what we are to all our clients.

This Wedding Planner has been put together to help you book and organise your big day, please use the sections provided to keep those all important notes, so that you can refer back to them when needed.

Set the date, if you are planning your big day during the most popular months from June – October your first choice of date/venue may already be un-available, so don't leave it too late. Book your venue and caterer – booking a package deal will mean you only have to deal with one person/company, a lot of venues have deals in place with top catering companies so rest assured you will be in good hands, if however you want to get a caterer of your own choice to provide the food for your wedding day then you must contact the venue directly and ask them if they will entertain your choice of company.

THE CEREMONY

Civil

This can take place at either a licensed venue or at a Registrar Office. You must give notice in person and the ceremony can be booked up to 12 months in advance.

Religious

This can take place at a place of worship or at a selected venue. Book the Church/Mandir/Gurdwara/Mosque as soon as possible, alternatively ensure that your venue can accommodate a religious ceremony. You will also need to book a priest who can give you details of any items required for the ceremony.

Many caterers can advise you of venues which can accommodate complete wedding days i.e. civil ceremony, religious ceremony and reception party, as well as give details of religious priests.

SEATING

Traditionally, the top table at a wedding is a straight table that faces all the guests. As a general rule close family and friends are seated nearest to the top table.

Today many reception parties are more informal; a round table can be placed in the centre or at the head of the room so that the bride and groom can mingle with their guests.

A seating plan is not essential but can be useful. Obtain a table plan to assist you with the seating arrangements and remember to give a few copies of your seating plan to your event organiser.

ENTERTAINMENT

The dancing is usually led by the Bride and Groom so remember to choose an appropriate song.

Live Band or DJ? – Make sure that you meet with your band or DJ so that they have a clear idea of your musical taste. Compile a play list if you can. You can always compile your own CD for background music during your ceremony or drinks reception.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES (MC)

If you are planning a wedding day which includes various ceremonies and locations, a Toastmaster is indispensable. He will be able to direct your guests to the right place at the right time. He will for example, introduce the bride and groom, introduce speeches and propose toasts. It is advisable to work closely with your Toastmaster to ensure the smooth running of your event.

SPEECHES

The Toastmaster is usually responsible for introducing the speeches. It is traditional for the father of the Bride to start by thanking guests for attending, welcoming the groom and his family and proposing a toast to the newly weds. The Groom will then speak, thanking the Brides family for hosting the function and raising a toast to his new wife. Lastly the Best Man will speak; this is usually a more informal speech about the Bride and Groom and usually ends with a toast to their union.

SPRING BRIDAL BEAUTY by Beauty Guru Zaynab

www.zaynab.com

As we leave behind the cold and grey winter. Gone with it are the days of heavy contour, Instagram brows and a solid matte lip. Instead, opt for makeup and hair that enhances, rather than conceals your natural beauty on your big day. If you fancy going against the Instagram bridal grain, here are my top tips for the perfect spring bridal look.

Barely-There Base

Instead of piling on the full coverage foundation, let your natural skin shine through with a luminescent liquid foundation for your big day. Apply concealer only to areas that need it, rather than overly painting and contouring the face.

Dewy Rose Glow

Stark highlighter is out, and a rosy glow is in. Add an illuminating pop of colour with a cream or liquid blush rather than powder for a warm natural look.

Bronzed Eyelids

Ditch the heavy cutcrease look in lieu of bronzed gold eyelids, with a softer smoky finish for a glowing neutral look, that compliments any eye colour.

Feline Flicks

Vavavoom... your eyes with a sassy kitten flick. Ultra winged liner is perfect with bronzed barely there lids.

Luscious Lashes

Lashes have long been the essential enhancement to your bridal makeup and remain a strong bridal trend for 2020. Whether they are full and feathery or a few natural wisps to elongate the outer edges of your eyes, false lashes are here to stay.

Glossy Lips

A glossy tint is the perfect way to add colour to your lips without wearing an opaque lipstick. Try a red or nude tint to tie together your bridal look.

Defrizz hair dryer that transforms your hair using a nozzle that integrates a bottle of argan oil.

Novexpert Booster with Vitamin C

high-performance booster serum delivers antioxidant, anti-inflammatory Vitamin C. Fighting sun damage, increasing luminosity and stimulates natural collagen for a visibly firmer, more radiant and more youthful appearance.

BRIDAL BEAUTY MUST-HAVES

Here's my pick of the best products to help get your bridal beauty game in check. From a cellulite busting device with fabulous results and an Argan Oil infusing Hairdryer to quite possibly my favourite hair brush ever.

Assome 3 in 1 Ultrasonic Massager Starter Kit

This 3 in 1 Massager uses Ultrasonic Technology to achieve deep cellulite reduction, as well as radiofrequency to firm and slim the body, and LED to smooth the skin. The results speak for themselves with skin elasticity improving by 8.5% after just one month and after 3 months the skin looks up to 36% firmer, more lifted and younger!

Perfect catering for the perfect occasion...

Our food is catered by award winning chef who has been serving the international market for the last 25 years. We have separate kitchens for Vegetarian and Non Vegetarian food, where our chef takes a traditional recipe, adds his own special touch of creativity and prepares it using authentic cooking techniques.

APPETISERS INCLUDE SUCH DELIGHTS AS

Tandoori Broccoli: Broccoli florets marinated with ginger

Carome Seed: Cream cheese and spices grilled in a clay oven.

FOR THE MAIN COURSE TRY:

Malmali Kofta: Handmade Cheese balls in a rich sauce flavoured with Cardamom

Chicken Chettinad: A hot and spicy tender Chicken cooked with freshly ground Black Pepper, Chopped Onions, Tomatoes and Chef's own blend of freshly ground spices.

Whatever you choose you're sure to enjoy the exquisite flavours brought to you by Panna's catering. Of course, you don't have to take our word for it, you can try the food for yourself either by visiting Panna's restaurant or by arranging a food tasting for the menu you require.

The beauty of using Panna's Catering is that you not only get fabulous food, but you get flexibility as well. You can discuss your menu with our head chef and once agreed, you can sit back knowing that the food is taken care of and it will be superb.

Whilst we are known for our Indian and Chinese cuisine, please don't think that that is all we can offer. We are equally at home offering European food! If this is more to your taste, just ask and we will arrange a food tasting of the menu you require.

OPEN 6 DAYS A WEEK • AVAILABLE FOR PARTIES • PRIVATE HIRE FOR UP TO 220 PEOPLE • FREE PARKING • CORPORATE LUNCHES & DINNERS
